Dear Dr. Loston:

In 2002, your institution reported and received approval for an off campus site called the Northeast Campus at which courses/programs were offered to students. San Antonio College also reported offering courses/programs at that site.

In January 2008, a new institution, Northeast Lakeview College, located at the same site, submitted an application for membership with the Commission on Colleges. In that application, that institution reported registering and teaching its own students who do not receive Federal Financial Aid and also reported offering courses/programs as well to students who are registered through Saint Philip's College and San Antonio College and who do receive Federal Financial Aid. It appears from information in the application that neither your institution nor San Antonio College any longer operates (oversees or staffs) a "Northeast Campus."

Please provide us with information concerning whether your institution currently has an off campus site called the "Northeast Campus" for which you assume administrative and instructional responsibility. In addition, please describe the extent and nature of the arrangement by which students registered at Saint Philip's take courses at Northeast Lakeview College.

If you have questions, please don't hesitate to call me.

Sincerely,

Belle

Belle S. Wheelan, Ph.D.
