Dear Dr. Loston:

I have delayed responding to your letter of response to my inquiry regarding the offering of courses on the Northeast Lakeview College campus because of conversations I had with Chancellor Leslie and members of the board. During a recent visit to San Antonio to discuss several things, one of which was the status of Northeast Lakeview College, there was still uncertainty about San Antonio College and St. Philip's College's offerings there.

I am now comfortable knowing that Northeast Lakeview College is a stand-alone campus where other colleges within the Alamo Community College District are offering their own courses and are being taught and supervised by the colleges offering the courses. It is my understanding that the reasons for other colleges offering courses at the College include the rising cost of gasoline, the fact that several programs are only offered at one institution within the District, and that there is not yet a full complement of faculty or programs at Northeast Lakeview College.

Thank you for the information you provided and, hopefully, I'll see you in December at the Annual Meeting in San Antonio.

Sincerely,
